Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133).
- Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

New corrected drawings are required in this application because the formal drawings filed on 7/22/03 appears to be a machine copy and the pages for figs. 42 and 46 do not show the entire the figures. Applicant is advised to employ the services of a competent patent draftsman outside the Office, as the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office no longer prepares new drawings. The corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The requirement for corrected drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Objections

Claims 18-22 are objected to because of the following informalities:

As to claim 22, lines 14-15, "a developing frame that rotatably supports the electrophotographic photosensitive drum and that is connected to the developing frame" is unclear. How is the developing frame connected to itself? Is the electrophotographic photosensitive drum supported by a drum frame?

As to claim 22, line 15, "the drum frame" lacks antecedent basis.

As to claim 18, lines 1-3, "detection member configured and positioned to detect the residual quantity of developer" is unclear. Where is this residual quantity of developer located and how is it related to a voltage being applied to the supporting portions through the biasing member?

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Applicant cannot rely upon the foreign priority papers to overcome this rejection because a translation of said papers has not been made of record in accordance with 37 CFR 1.55. See MPEP § 201.15.

Claims 12-16, 17/12, 17/16, 22 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Miyabe et al. (2001/00226707).

Miyabe et al. discloses a photosensitive drum 11 supported by a cleaning frame portion 13; and a development roller 18 and developer blade 26 are supported by a developing means frame portion 17. Note page 11, paragraph [0141]. A pressure that keeps the driven side of the development roller 18 pressed upon the photosensitive drum 11 is generated by a combination of three forces: F1, F2, and F3. F2 is generated by a tension spring 36, that reads on the instant invention's biasing member, stretched between a hole 26g of the metallic plate 26a which reads on the instant invention's supporting portion of the development blade 26, and an axle-like spring anchoring projection 13d of the cleaning means frame portion 13 which reads on the instant invention's drum frame. Materials for the tension spring 36 are from material such as SUS, piano wire and phosphor bronze. Note page 11, paragraph [0142]. The developing blade 26 is attached to the developing means frame portion 17 by a screw 68. Note page 9, paragraph [0128].

Claims 12-16, 17/12, 17/16, 22, and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Miyabe et al. (2001/00226707). See above for discussion of Miyabe et al.

The applied reference has a common inventor with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 18-21 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Yashiro (Japan, 822) discloses a spring used for a process cartridge.
